LAMAR TELLS KHLOE GET OUT!

Feeling used and betrayed, an ungrateful Odom asks her to leave the hospital. What made him snap — and her surprising reaction

When crisis hits, they hit back.

SERIES PREMIERE TUESDAY NOV 17 • 9/8c NBC

AFTER THE VOICE

EMMA & ANDREW SPLIT!

Last supper? The pair had dinner in Los Angeles Aug. 1.

SPLASH NEWS

Consider it an unsuccessful sequel. After taking a brief breather from their four-year romance in April, Emma Stone and Andrew Garfield called it quits for good this summer. "They broke up a couple of months ago," says an insider of the Arizona-born Oscar nominee, 27, and the British-raised actor, 32, who hooked up on the set of 2012's The Amazing Spider-Man and soon moved in together near L.A. "They still have a lot of love for one another and are on good terms. It just wasn't working."

SECOND TAKE The romance began malfunctioning this spring. After years of sweet PDA and gushing praise (he dubbed her a "singular talent" in 2013; a year later, she called him "a remarkable human being"), they took a break in April. "They'd been fighting a lot," a source said at the time, adding that Garfield, then filming the somber drama Silence in Taiwan, was "in a dark place" and "not boyfriend material." By May, he was back in the U.S. — and in Stone's arms. "They tried to give it another go," the source says, "but the same feelings just weren't there." That's not to say the pair couldn't reprise their on-screen chemistry. "They would work together if it was the right project," says the pal. "They're still friends. There really is no drama."

Us exclusive! Meet the 14 teams that will battle in Bodrum, Turkey.

The Challenge's Family Affair

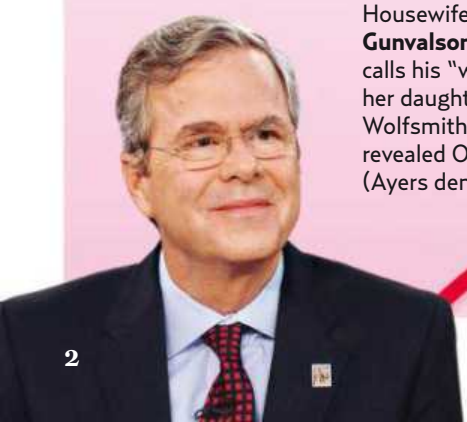

Flesh and blood, and sweat and tears. For the 27th season of MTV's The Challenge (premieres December 2 at 10 P.M.), 10 veterans from the cutthroat reality competition each team up with a family member to battle against other pairs. (Four former cast members from The Real World and Are You the One? also join in with kin on the installment subtitled Battle of the Bloodlines.) Among the MTV alums vying for the $350,000 prize: five-time winner Johnny "Bananas" Devenanzio, 33, who will take part in grueling tasks such as solving puzzles while submerged underwater with cousin Vince Gliatta, 31. "We both have egos that have trouble fitting inside the same room," jokes Devenanzio. But volatile Camila Nakagawa, 27, teamed with sibling Larissa, 21, is all business. "If you want to piss me off," she says, "mess with my sister." Game on!

GIVING US THE CREEPS

Well, that was awkward: These crude dudes got a little too personal

Jeb Bush

When asked to name his top comic hero October 21, the White House hopeful, 62, nominated star Melissa Benoist, 27. "I saw that Supergirl is on TV. She looked pretty hot." Her retort: "I'm glad he's excited to watch the show."

Brooks Ayers

"Girth Brooks." That's what Orange County Housewife Vicki Gunvalson's ex, 48, calls his "wee-wee," her daughter, Briana Wolfsmith-Culberson, revealed October 26. (Ayers denied it.)

Jeremy Bieber

"What do you feed that thing? #proud daddy," Justin's pop, 41, wrote October 9 after nude pics of his son leaked online. At least Justin, 21, was amused: "I thought it was hilarious!"

Brody Jenner

Sisters Kendall, 20, and Kylie, 18, "know what's up" in the bedroom, the Sex With Brody host, 32, said July 14. "They could teach me things. I mean, look at their older sisters!"

Donald Trump

The Republican POTUS candidate, 69 (wed to Melania, 45), puts family first. In 2006, he joked that Ivanka, then 25, "does have a very nice figure. I've said that if Ivanka weren't my daughter, perhaps, I would be dating her."

WHAT'S IN MY BAG?

Sunny pop singer Demi Lovato, 23, takes Us into her confidence

In the days before dropping her fifth album, Confident, Lovato was attached to her Samsung Galaxy. "It sounds narcissistic," says the Albuquerque native, "but I was listening to my songs, imagining what the world would think." The love of Wilmer Valderrama, 35, who begins her Future Now tour in June, details other essentials in her Saint Laurent tote.

LOOK SHARP

"I always have City Proof 24Hr Waterproof Eye Shadow from NYC New York Color in silver or black. You can use it as a liner or smudge it with your fingers."

FAST FOOD

"I really love Quest bars and Power Crunch bars. Sometimes I'll have those for when I'm traveling. You don't really know when you'll have a moment to eat!"

CLEARING THE AIR

"I have allergy asthma. [When] I'm allergic to something, like cats or dogs, I can't breathe very well, so I carry an inhaler."

HELPING HANDS

"I get my nails done so often — I used to get gel and acrylics — that it damaged them. Now I'm trying to strengthen them, so I keep a file and cuticle oil."

ART WORK

"I have a new [rose] tattoo and need to keep it moisturized. You can use Aquaphor for anything!"

25 Things You Don't Know About Me

The actress, 33, gets wicked candid

1. I grew up in Los Angeles. I love this city.

2. My family is artistic. Dad [Steven] plays music, Mom [Kathy] is a photographer and my three brothers [Nick, Dane and Brando] write, act, paint and photograph.
3. My family are huge Lakers fans. I'm a big Clippers fan. The rivalry is friendly.
4. When I was 5, I was an extra in an episode of Webster.
5. I love etymology.
6. I grew up on classic rock. Now I'm in a hip-hop phase.
7. I love garlic. I'll eat enough to happily give myself a stomachache.
8. I can do 20 pushups at a time on a bad day.

9. Growing up, skateboarding culture was a big part of my life.

10. I bought my first car at age 16 — a Honda Accord.
11. When I started acting, I got feedback that I was "green." I was offended and wondered how they knew.
12. I take a cold shower for at least two minutes daily.

13. My first kiss was in rehearsal for a scene with Erik Von Detten.

14. My dream is to do action movies.
15. I've been a Scientologist for years. I am all the good things I am because of it.

Wicked City airs on ABC Tuesdays at 10 P.M.

16. I've recently married the loveliest of men [cyclist Cole Maness, 37].
17. We met at a cycling race.
18. We both used to ride an average of 40 miles a day.
19. I've had pretty much every color hair.

20. I make a pesto-chimichurri sauce that's good on everything.

21. I'm fairly convincing while speaking Spanish.
22. I'm good at spelling, but until about four years ago, I thought demon had a d at the end.
23. I'm also a closet member of the grammar police. I won't call you out, though.
24. My husband and I recently found homes for two dogs.
25. Some of my favorite performances by actors are Daniel Day-Lewis in There Will Be Blood and Sam Rockwell in Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy.

Cereal Shamed

TEIGEN

Chrissy Teigen is fed up! The pregnant model, 29, lashed out October 29 after Instagram followers labeled her craving — Fruity Pebbles and Cap'n Crunch — "dyed crap." She warned that those offering "unsolicited baby advice . . . better unlock your profile so I can see your perfection." Though Teigen says she's "unoffendable," a source notes the criticism "isn't easy to take."

NEW LEASH ON LIFE

WHAT THE STARS SAID THIS WEEK

"I'm always in awe of those women who can commit to the naughty nurse at preschool."

On "inappropriate" Halloween attire at 5-year-old Louis' school,

SANDRA BULLOCK

"You fall in love with who you fall in love with. . . . I guess some people just come with a little more baggage."

On ex Miley Cyrus,

LIAM HEMSWORTH

"I was like, 'You know, I was on the show six years. That's great — you can sit in front of me.'"

On Kanye West and Kim Kardashian's prime seating at SNL 40,

DAVID SPADE

"All we have left really truly in this world that we can control is our own integrity. . . . Be good to yourself. Don't worry about all that other s--t."

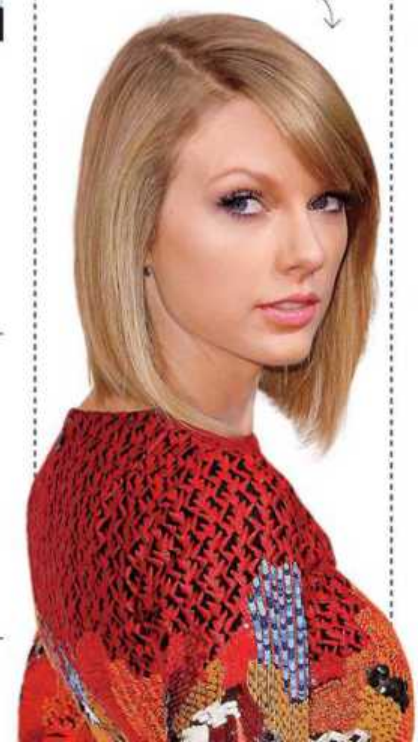

On her advice for son Silas, 7 months,

JESSICA BIEL

"How long do we have before this turns into just an awful mess and we break up? Is it a month? Is it three days?"

On her inner dialogue while dating Harry Styles in 2012,

TAYLOR SWIFT

"There's nothing more grounding than a kid kicking off and refusing to do what you're asking of them."

On 3-year-old son Angelo,

ADELE

"We've never dated the same guy, and . . . we know what will look good on one another."

On why she and Tina Fey feel like they are sisters,

AMY POEHLER

"She's decisive, incredibly intuitive . . . and, might I say, sexy at her post. I trust her with my life."

On working with wife Angelina Jolie,

BRAD PITT

"I'm hoping we don't get a lot of people being like, 'Oh, self-promotion, huh?'"

For more fitness tips and tools from Nikki, including her Baby Bootie Camp DVD and app, check out nikkifitness.com

Nikki Glor, celeb trainer, with her 4-month-old daughter

1 Rocking Thighs

Squat with baby in arms and toes pointed out 45 degrees (A). Next, rock weight to right leg.

Stand up on right leg and lift left leg out with a flexed foot (B). Rock back to middle and then switch legs. Complete 20 reps on each side.

Benefit for Baby: Rocking movement is calming and soothing

Benefit for Parent: Tones inner and outer thighs, quadriceps and glutes as well as overall calorie burn through cardio

Benefit from Huggies® Little Movers: The contoured diaper shape moves with baby while rocking

2 Patty Cake Crunches

Lay on the floor face up with knees bent and feet flat. Sit baby on your hips facing you. Crunch up using abs to lift shoulders and head off the floor, touching baby's hands for a game of patty cake. Complete as many crunches as possible.

Benefit for Baby: Helps build lower body strength, balance and hand-eye coordination

Benefit for Parent: Strengthens core and tones abs

Benefit from Huggies® Little Movers: The Double Grip Strips provide a comfy fit while baby balances on your hips

Photography by Andrew Southam

Movements were created by AFAA certified NYC personal trainer, Nicole Glor, and are intended for babies that can crawl and have just begun to walk. The movements are not intended for all babies. Please only perform movements you believe you and your baby can perform safely. If you have any questions or concerns about the movements check with your or your baby's doctor prior to trying these movements. If you and your baby engage in these movements, you agree that you do so at your own risk, are voluntarily participating in these activities and assume all risk of injury.

3 Baby Rockets

Hold baby out in front of chest. Next, squat into a wide plié stance so that knees are directly over ankles when bent at 90 degrees. Point toes out 45 degrees (A).

Stand to straighten legs and then lift baby overhead (B). Complete 15 reps.

Benefit for Baby: Up and down movement energizes and entertains

Benefit for Parent: Works legs, biceps and shoulders

Benefit from Huggies® Little Movers: The NEW DryTouch® Liner absorbs moisture to keep baby dry as they go up and down

4 Triceps Dips with Baby

Start by standing up with baby secured in a shoulder carrier. Next, support yourself on a sturdy chair by placing hands (fingertips forward) next to hips. Then, step feet away from chair so legs are straight and toes are pointed upward (A).

Lower hips down until elbows are bent at a 90 degree angle (B). Complete 10 reps.

Benefit for Baby: Belly-to-belly contact promotes bonding and relaxation

Benefit for Parent: Sculpts triceps and strengthens core

Benefit from Huggies® Little Movers: The Leak Lock® System protects against leaks while dipping with parent

Huggies® Little Movers Diapers give your baby a more comfortable fit as they set off to explore the world.

New Huggies® Little Movers® Diapers and its Moving Baby System* give baby outstanding grip, fit and wetness protection, so babies get the most out of every little move as they begin to kick, roll, crawl and walk.

NEW DryTouch® Liner – Absorbs moisture on contact. It's Huggies' driest feeling diaper ever!
Double Grip Strips – For a comfy fit that lasts
Contoured Diaper Shape – Helps keep diaper in place, allowing your baby to move freely
Leak Lock® System – For up to 12 hours of leakage protection

BLAKE & GWEN

Their Flirty Night Out

Shelton and Stefani fuel romance rumors

Gwen Stefani lassoed a country boy at Jared Leto's Halloween bash October 30. Dressed as a bloody cowgirl, "she was holding Blake Shelton's hand and walking him through the party to get a drink," a witness at the L.A. fete tells Hot Stuff. "And they didn't let go as they ordered." While guests roamed the fright-filled house, the newly single mentors on The Voice "talked intimately," says the source. "They were attached at the hip." They remained inseparable at night's end as they left in the same SUV. Still, Stefani is playing coy on her romantic status. As the mom of three put it to Carson Daly on his radio show November 2, "We're just trying to have fun."

They partied with Adam Levine (left) the next night.

Rustic Chic Wedding!

Bryan Greenberg and Jamie Chung's October 31 nuptials were a spirited affair. Following a costumed "Boos and Booze"–themed party the night before (he was Back to the Future's Marty McFly; she was a Troop Beverly Hills camper!), the couple wed at El Capitan nature resort in Santa Barbara. The Once Upon a Time actress, 32, who wore Monique Lhuillier, "cried when she recited personal vows" in a ceremony that included Jewish traditions, says a source. At the cocktail reception, guests sat on blanket-topped hay bales while a band played. Later, dinner was served in a tented lodge! For Greenberg, 37, the day was just a prelude. As he told Us in July, "We're focused on what comes after!"

ZOOEY CONVERTS

"I don't attach myself to any one religion," Zooey Deschanel, 35, whose mom is Roman Catholic and father is Quaker, has said. But before marrying producer husband Jacob Pechenik in June, the mother of 3-month-old Elsie professed a new set of beliefs. "Zooey converted to Judaism for Jacob," an insider tells Hot Stuff. And her new life has been divine. Adds a source close to the couple, "They're loving the baby and marriage!"

"She acts happy for the kids," says a source.

Union on the Rocks

Kendra Wilkinson and husband Hank Baskett might need a second round of Marriage Boot Camp. The Kendra on Top star, 30, hit three Halloween parties in L.A. without the former NFL player, 33. "She was on the prowl," says a source. Another insider says Wilkinson is still punishing Baskett, who was accused of cheating with a transgender model in 2014. "I'm not sure she'll ever get over it," the insider says. Though a pal adds the dad of Hank IV, 5, and Alijah, 18 months, "wants to stay together for the kids," Wilkinson is losing hope. Says the insider: "She's deeply unhappy."

HANNAH & DEREK

Home Run Proposal

Former New York Yankees shortstop Derek Jeter isn't finished with diamonds after all. The five-time World Series champion, 41, proposed to his girlfriend of three years, model Hannah Davis, 25, October 25. "The ring is huge!" says a source close to the Sports Illustrated Swimsuit edition cover girl. "Derek was a gentleman and asked Hannah's dad for permission. Her family thinks he's great." Indeed, the New York–based pair make a winning team. "Derek loves that Hannah has her own ambitions," adds the pal, "and she calls him her Prince Charming!"

"He's a proud husband," the pal says of Craig (in London Oct. 26).

DANIEL & RACHEL

Royally Affectionate

After eight months of running around Morocco, Austria and Italy as James Bond, Daniel Craig is happy to be back in the arms of wife Rachel Weisz. The married couple of four years held hands as the British actor, 47, greeted Prince Harry, Prince William and Duchess Kate at the London premiere of Spectre October 26. "They were giddy after meeting Prince Harry, laughing and talking about the event," an insider says of the reclusive actress, 45, and the action star, who also kissed in front of the redheaded royal. It was a special occasion for Craig, who has admitted his personal life "has to go on hold" when he works. Adds the partygoer, "They so rarely do these things together, but he wanted her there. He walks taller when he's with her."

Stewart, 52 (in NYC Oct. 24), met his wife on a blind date in 1996.

JON & TRACEY

Devoted Parents

Leaving their New Jersey farm does not promise romance for Jon Stewart and wife Tracey. "We'll end up in a hotel room turning on, like, the Disney Channel," he told Entertainment Tonight October 24 of missing Nathan, 11, and Maggie, 9. "It's embarrassing." The former veterinary tech, 48, says Stewart's Daily Show retirement has done wonders for their relationship: "He hasn't quite adjusted to being a stay-at-home dad, so he's appreciating me more."

BLENDING THEIR TASTES

Cameron Diaz and her husband, Benji Madden, are redecorating her Beverly Hills bachelorette pad. "Benji moved in when they got together," says a source close to the 43-year-old actress. So the pair, who wed in January, "have been adding things to bring in his rocker style." Diaz and the guitarist, 36, have already settled into a routine with their neighbors — his twin, Joel, and wife Nicole Richie. "They all hike with their dogs," says the insider, "and they love going on double dates."

Madden and Diaz (in Beverly Hills Oct. 28) met in May 2014.

BEN & CHRISTINE
His Favorite Critic

Ben Stiller relies on wife Christine Taylor to tell him what's funny. "We trust each other. We get each other," the actor-director, 49, tells Us of collaborating with his Zoolander 2 costar, 44. "You can't do comedy in a vacuum. You need people to react." But it's a one-woman show in the kitchen. For Thanksgiving, says the mother of two, "I spend three days cooking. It's all about sugar, butter, casseroles and family traditions!"

STANLEY'S OTHER HALF

Stanley Tucci tries to stand up to Felicity Blunt. "I'm kinda like, 'Do you have to wear those heels?'" the 5-foot-8 actor, 55, has joked of posing with the statuesque 34-year-old literary agent. "Everyone's like, 'Oh, there's Felicity with her short grandfather.'" Despite the height and age gaps, the Spotlight star said Blunt is an old soul. "She's much more mature than I am, so it's a perfect match."

The duo (in NYC Oct. 27) welcomed son Matteo in January.

Friends convince a confused Odom that wife Kardashian is using him for self-promotion

BY ERIC ANDERSSON

Odom (in 2012) "loves Khloé," says an Odom source, "but he is hurt by what she's doing."

She's an opportunist. A control freak. A narcissist. Lamar Odom often hears the Khloé Kardashian trash-talk when his family and friends arrive at his bedside at L.A.'s Cedars-Sinai hospital. Members of his inner circle are quick to point out that while doctors assess the damage he suffered on October 13 as a result of a three-day drug and alcohol binge at a Nevada brothel, his estranged wife and her image-obsessed family have used the tragedy to promote themselves. One Odom confidant insists Khloé is trying to take credit for his miraculous recovery from a series of strokes. Another friend claims the Kardashians tipped off paparazzi to get photos of themselves dutifully visiting the hospital. Others have griped to him that the reality star blocked them from stopping by the hospital. His head filled with the many horror stories, the ailing Odom snapped October 23. The next time he saw Khloé, "Lamar said he needed space and wanted to be alone," says the Odom family source. "He told her to get out."

As Khloé is learning, no good deed goes unpunished. In the immediate aftermath of Odom's overdose, she put her life on hold as his hung in the balance. She fled to his side, halted her book tour for Strong Looks Better Naked, called off their divorce proceedings and even flew his family in from New York at her own expense. And yet, with so many people whispering in his ear, the 6-foot-10 former NBA star, 36, "believes she has used him," says the source.

OUT!

With reporting by Brody Brown & Amy Sultan

"He feels betrayed." Some of his fans do too. When People magazine, featuring Khloé, 31, on the cover, was released on October 28, she received a firestorm of hateful tweets. Inside the publication, Khloé — who filed for divorce in 2013 after Odom's crack use and infidelity destroyed their four-year union — dished about Odom's harrowing ordeal while promoting her book. More dismaying, it was made clear in the story that she spoke to the reporter from Odom's hospital room while he was still in a coma. "Is nothing sacred and worthy of privacy?" one of her many critics posted. Khloé immediately defended herself on social media. "I want to make this VERY clear . . . My people cover, I shot and interviewed for PRIOR to all the events that happened," she tweeted. "I had to do a follow up 5 minute phoner after the events only because I was contracted to." Though one source insists Odom has no knowledge of the interview, another says it infuriated him. "The interview was too much for Lamar," continues the source. "He can't forgive her."

Khloé and Odom (with her sister Kim in his Queens neighborhood in 2012) allowed E! cameras to capture the ups and downs of their marriage.

IN-LAW FIGHTING

The power struggle between the Kardashian and Odom camps began before the basketball player regained consciousness, according to Odom family sources. As his relatives flocked to Las Vegas to sit vigil at Sunrise Hospital and Medical Center, they faced a roadblock, they claim. Odom's cousin Sherae Clark-Williams says the Kardashians demanded she and others sign confidentiality agreements. She balked and wasn't allowed inside, she fumed on Facebook October 16: "I'm supposed to sign a waiver not to talk about [Kim Kardashian and Kanye West's daughter] North West, a child I have No interest in What so ever."

But those with the last name Kardashian, West and Jenner were not exempt. "Everyone had to sign confidentiality agreements: Kim, Kylie, Kris," says a Khloé confidant, who adds that visitor Reverend Al Sharpton was given one too. "Khloé wanted to make sure everything in the hospital stayed private. Lamar couldn't speak for himself and she wanted to protect him."

That instinct led to another gross misunderstanding. After Odom's kids, Destiny, 17, and Lamar Jr., 13, traveled from New York to see their father October 21, they too turned against their onetime stepmother. "Khloé wouldn't let them see Lamar, as he was still getting settled," asserts the Odom family source. "The next day, she claimed he wasn't ready yet." When she finally invited them in October 23, the kids told Dad that Khloé had prevented them from visiting. But the Khloé confidant explains Odom had pneumonia: "The doctors told the kids that they couldn't come up. Khloé has absolutely no control over who is allowed in Lamar's room."

Odom sided with his kids. "He was angry at Khloé," says the Odom family source. "He threw her out that night." (A source close to Khloé denies that this and any paparazzi setups happened: "It isn't true.")

STEPS AHEAD

Khloé has stayed strong after her dustup with Odom. The week after he kicked her out, she attended sister Kim's baby shower and flew to Houston to reconnect with her boyfriend of four months, NBA star James Harden. "She needed to resume her life," explains the Khloé source. But by Halloween, she was back by Odom's bedside — despite his cruel words. "Lamar's emotions have been erratic," explains the Khloé source. "It's a result of the strokes. He's up, then he's down."

Physically, he's defying expectations. Though he remains in intensive care, "Lamar is talking more and walking with help now," reports the Odom family source. "He is getting stronger." His kidneys — which doctors thought were permanently damaged — are now functioning, and he no longer needs dialysis or a transplant, continues the source: "Lamar is getting better every day." And Khloé, no matter what Odom's circle may think, is his biggest cheerleader, says a Kardashian source: "She deeply cares for him and loves him." US

Scott Extends His Rehab Stay

Kourtney Kardashian urges her ex to get more treatment

» Kourtney Kardashian wants to make sure Scott Disick is truly ready before he leaves rehab. Though her ex was scheduled for release Halloween weekend, she persuaded him not to leave the Malibu facility where he has resided since mid-October. "He spoke to Kourtney, and she questioned if it was too soon," says a source close to the 32-year-old, a three-time rehab vet over the past two years. Disick agreed: "He's making progress, but there was no harm in staying a bit longer." To cheer him up, Kourtney, 36 — who dumped the hard-partying Disick in July after photos surfaced of him groping an ex — brought their kids, Mason, 5, and Penelope, 3, to the center for a visit November 1. (Reign, 11 months, stayed home.) While cordial, Kourtney, who Instagrammed a sexy pic October 30 (right), is not looking to reconcile. "She is very ready to be single," says a pal. "She wants to date again."

Martinez and Berry (in 2012) are "both intense and very emotional," says a Berry source.

Olivier & Halle

SUDDEN SPLIT

With reporting by Alli Rosenbloom, Omid Scobie & Amy Sultan

They wed at a French château, but the fairy tale ended for Martinez and Berry two years later. Now, they pledge to coparent BY JAMIE BLYNN

Halle Berry has had her share of heartbreak. She lost 80 percent of her hearing in one ear when a boyfriend assaulted her in 1991. Her public split from baseball pro husband David Justice in 1997 was, as she put it, a "painful chapter in my life." Second husband Eric Benét has admitted to cheating before their 2005 breakup. And yet, as recently as 2012, the Oscar winner still considered herself a "hopeless romantic," telling InStyle she would not give up "till I get it right." Her 2013 marriage to actor Olivier Martinez, she hoped, marked that milestone.

She'll have to keep trying. On October 27, the Extant star and Martinez, both 49, announced their decision to divorce, telling Us that despite "a heavy heart," the parents of Maceo, 2, are "moving forward with love and respect." Their actions suggest otherwise. When Berry petitioned for divorce under the alias Hal Maria (she dubbed her husband and son Oliver and Mac Martin) October 26, Martinez filed using their real names. The next day, Berry (who is worth about $70 million) filed again, this time without pseudonyms. "They're competitive," says a Berry source. "The divorce will be bitter." Another Berry pal, however, chalks the drama up to strategy. "They agreed to file under fake names, but when news got out, they realized it was a legal misstep and both lawyers suggested they refile." In fact, the source says the duo have a prenup and plan to enter mediation to settle on joint custody: "There's zero bitterness."

BOILING POINTS

Martinez blames the courts for much of the pair's issues, says a confidant. In February 2012, Berry — who shares custody of daughter Nahla, 7, with model Gabriel Aubry — asked to relocate her to Martinez's native France, where he has an apartment in Paris. "They dreamed of settling down there," says a confidant. "They checked out schools and houses." But her request was denied by November, leaving him in "the pressure cooker" of L.A. According to the pal, Martinez later said moving "would have saved the marriage."

A disappointed Martinez's temper flared. Two weeks after the ruling, he punched Aubry while arguing over Nahla. And last January, the Revenge actor charged LAX airport employee Ronaldo Owens, who was trying to photograph Maceo, and knocked him to the ground. (Owens later sued for $5 million.) At home, says the Berry source, "they screamed a lot. They're hotheaded."

Berry dressed as a sexy pirate for a Halloween party in L.A. Oct. 31.

A FAMILY MATTER

Now, Martinez is bunking in Berry's second house in L.A.'s Benedict Canyon. "They want Maceo to have a place to be with Olivier," notes another Martinez source. Though Martinez's confidant says the actor intends for Maceo "to spend time" in France, he is committed to coparenting. Adds the Martinez source, "They want what's best for their son." US

STORMY ROMANCES

Choosing guys isn't Berry's superpower

DAVID JUSTICE
Three years after marrying the Atlanta Braves pro, 49, she filed a restraining order in 1996, alleging he threatened her. Their subsequent divorce had her considering suicide, she revealed: "My sense of worth was so low."

ERIC BENÉT
Sex-addiction rehab followed a 2003 cheating admission by the singer, 49, two years into their union. The dad of India, then 12 (who requested spousal support in the 2005 divorce), later copped to "stupid-ass mastakes."

GABRIEL AUBRY
They never wed, but Nahla's parents lasted five years before splitting in 2010. During a custody battle, a judge ordered Berry to pay the model, 39, $16,000 a month in child support. She reportedly is still disputing it.

Leah's SCIENTOLOGY SHOCKERS!

Remini talks church life and why she's no fan of Tom Cruise

BY SARAH GROSSBART

There's a reason Leah Remini named her newly released memoir Troublemaker. Over 30-plus years as a follower of Scientology, the controversial religion founded by L. Ron Hubbard, the King of Queens alum, 45, was often branded an agitator by higher-ups. Among her crimes: poking fun at the church's most famous member, Tom Cruise, for making out with then-girlfriend Katie Holmes while she was teaching them salsa. "I said, 'Hey, get a frickin' room!'" Remini recalled on 20/20 October 30, adding that she was written up and sent to auditing sessions. Now the actress, who left Scientology in 2013, "is not holding back anymore," says a Remini insider of the tell-all and surrounding interviews. Us examines her most fascinating claims. (See box, right, for the church's response.)

Holmes and Cruise (in 2006) snubbed Remini postvows.

Anthony and Lopez attended Cruise's three-day I do's in Italy at Remini's behest.

She did hard labor as a teen

Part of the church since age 8, the Brooklyn native said that after her family moved to Florida, she signed a "billion-year" contract with Sea Org, an order for the most dedicated disciples. (Scientologists believe in a form of reincarnation — hence, the long term.) Remini told 20/20 she worked in a laundry room and even manned an industrial sander. At night, she slept in a roach-infested dorm.

She spent big bucks to study aliens

After doling out "hundreds of thousands of dollars" for course work (she donated another $2.5 million to church charities), Remini was made privy to a key Scientology doctrine in 2003: the story of Xenu. As she recalled, the intergalactic warlord blew up people in a volcano, "then those spirits are now inside of you. . . . I said, 'This is some crazy s--t.'"

Cruise precipitated her exit

Though she was concerned how Cruise and his couch-jumping antics reflected on the church, Remini was excited to attend his 2006 wedding to Holmes. She was asked to invite friends Jennifer Lopez and Marc Anthony, but during the three-day Italian affair, they were continuously separated. Her theory: Church officials were trying to convert Lopez and "I was barring that road." Back home, Remini says, she was made to feel like even more of an outcast. She learned several guests — and Holmes — had filed "knowledge reports" (sanctioned tattling, in essence) about her behavior. (In an October 30 statement, Holmes said, "I regret having upset Leah in the past.") Remini was sent to Clearwater, Florida, for three to four months of daily 13-hour "reprogramming" sessions.

She worried about her future

Deciding to sever ties with the church in 2013 (along with husband Angelo Pagan, daughter Sofia, 11, and her mom, Vicki Marshall) was scary for Remini: Not only was she abandoning a way of life, but "marking myself for whatever the church usually does to people who leave . . . is not a walk in the park." Still, says a source, Remini isn't letting anxiety affect her: "She is angry about all the years she wasted." US

What the Church Says

Rather than move on with her life, with Ms. Remini's book, she now seeks attention to kick-start her stalled career and to profit by bad-mouthing her former religion and friends," Karin Pouw, a rep for the church, tells Us. She dismisses Remini's claims.

● ON SEA ORG
"The facility received regular inspections by the Pinellas County Health Department."

● ON COURTING LOPEZ
"Another lie. . . . The only dealings the Church had with Ms. Remini with regards to Ms. Lopez was having to listen to her complaints about Ms. Lopez."

● ON WEDDING FALLOUT
"Ms. Remini voluntarily went to the Church to receive religious services. Her characterizations are another example of revisionist history. . . . [She was] formally expelled."

Remini's book is out now ($27, amazon.com).

ONE TOUR DE FORCE

Star Wars: The Force Awakens

How do you keep a secret of intergalactic proportions? "We make people feel really bad if they leak anything," coproducer Kathleen Kennedy tells Us of the hotly anticipated Episode VII (December 18). While Harrison Ford, Carrie Fisher and Mark Hamill reprise their iconic roles, it's newcomer Daisy Ridley at the center of the universe. Adds Kennedy of having a female lead, "I am such a hero with my teen daughters!"

HOLIDAY MOVIES

TWO FUNNY LADIES

Sisters

RSVP to Amy Poehler and Tina Fey! The duo (above) reunite as estranged siblings on a mission to host an epic house party. Ike Barinholtz, who romances Poehler in the comedy (December 18), tells Us the family secrets.

BARINHOLTZ

Did you know Amy and Tina before filming?

I was a lowly busboy at Chicago's Second City when they were the big stars of the improv scene there in the '90s. I always said, "One day, I'm going to do a movie with you guys." And they would say, "If we ever do a movie with you, that's a sign our career is not in good shape." But as it turns out, they're fine!

So it felt like a big reunion on set?

It did! We just hope the movie does well enough that we can do a sequel and all be really mean to each other.

Pick a sister: Amy or Tina?

I would want them to be conjoined and both be my sister. That way I don't have to choose between them.

THREE DECADES OF J. LAW

Joy

Jennifer Lawrence is aging gracefully. The 25-year-old transforms from a struggling single mother into the head of a multimillion-dollar empire in the dramedy (December 25) — her third with Bradley Cooper and director David O. Russell — based on the life of Miracle Mop inventor Joy Mangano. "She's amazing!" Orange Is the New Black's Dascha Polanco, who plays Lawrence's best friend, tells Us of the Oscar winner (above). "She has such a great sense of humor and is so inviting. I was surprised at just how down to earth she really is."

FOUR OSCAR NOMINEES

The Big Short

Scoring Steve Carell and Ryan Gosling (right), plus Christian Bale and Brad Pitt, for the dramedy about the 2008 financial crisis (December 11) was a big miracle, director Adam McKay tells Us: "They were all into it. I couldn't believe it!" Look out for starry cameos too. (Cough, Selena Gomez.)

FIVE FAMILY MEMBERS

Daddy's Home

Will Ferrell (above left) graduates from Step Brothers to stepdad in this feel-good comedy (December 25). As docile Brad, he fights for his two stepkids' affections when their biological father (Mark Wahlberg) comes back to town. Linda Cardellini, who plays mom Sarah, tells Us, "To be caught between these two was so much fun."

SIX YEARS OF CHANGE

The Danish Girl

Before Caitlyn Jenner, there was Lili Elbe. Eddie Redmayne (right) stars as Elbe in the film (December 25) based on the true story of the 1920s transgender pioneer who journeyed from Copenhagen to Paris to become her authentic self. "There's something about Eddie that's drawn to the feminine," director Tom Hooper tells Us. "He prepped for a year!"

SEVENTH TIME'S A CHARM

Creed

Ring of fire: In the seventh film in the Rocky series (November 25), retired champ Balboa (Sylvester Stallone, below left) trains the son of former rival Apollo Creed (Michael B. Jordan). Jordan breaks a sweat for Us.

Learn anything from Stallone?
Sly is savvy! He gave me some style tips, and he taught me how to throw punches. Old dog's still got a little bite to him!

What made your gym playlist?
I worked out two to three times a day and listened to A$AP Rocky, Drake and Big Sean's albums. They were on constant repeat.

Are you a lover or a fighter?
Both! I'm definitely a lover, but I also fight when I have to — for something or someone.

EIGHT DEADLY STRANGERS

The Hateful Eight

When casting his ninth film (December 25), director Quentin Tarantino had in mind a specific motley crew, including Samuel L. Jackson (left) and Kurt Russell. "I was writing for those guys," he has said of his post–Civil War Western. "They fit . . . like a glove."

NINE MONTHS OF FILMING

The Revenant

For nearly a year, Leonardo DiCaprio (left) and his costars weathered the grueling Canadian wilderness to shoot the Western survival thriller (December 25). "We got sick of each other's jokes," actor Will Poulter tells Us, "and played a lot of poker."

TEN DANGEROUS LETTERS

Concussion

Will Smith is tackling the NFL. In the sports biopic (December 25), the actor plays a Nigerian doctor who sheds light on how the league turns a blind eye to head traumas. Smith (left) says, "That's the thing that's so incredible about this story: that no one knows."

ELEVEN YEARS IN THE MAKING

Carol

Love, actually: This period drama (November 20) features Rooney Mara as a shy store clerk who falls for a sophisticated almost-divorcée (Cate Blanchett, above). Us chats with Sarah Paulson, who plays Blanchett's best friend and ex-lover, about the Todd Haynes–directed film that took more than a decade to get the greenlight.

What made you want to audition for this movie?
Three words: Blanchett, Mara and Haynes. Todd is a real auteur, and I admired the actors enormously. I met Cate for the first time at the Academy Awards just before filming. She had just won an Oscar, so what would have already been an intimidating experience became even more so!

What was the on-set vibe?
It was very playful. There was a lot of laughter! Cate likes to enjoy life and be in the moment, and Rooney is quieter and mysterious, which I think is exquisite.

Why do you think this film is important?
This is a love story. Everyone can appreciate a love story, and you happen to have this one being told by two of the greatest actresses we have today.

Was it hard to transition from American Horror Story to a 1950s romance?
It wasn't difficult, and I have AHS to thank for that. I'm constantly using that acting muscle to go between characters, so I was warmed up!

TWELVE WEEKS AT SEA

In the Heart of the Sea

It's not easy being lean. Based on the true tale that inspired Moby-Dick, the epic (December 11) details a harrowing whale encounter that leaves Chris Hemsworth (above) and his costars shipwrecked and starving. "The cast reduced their calories down to 500 or 600 a day," director Ron Howard tells Us. But he had a weight-loss expert at the ready: "I called Tom Hanks," he adds. "He had to do it for Cast Away, so we followed his advice!"

THIRTEEN NIGHTS OF BROMANCE

The Night Before

Childhood pals Chris (Anthony Mackie), Isaac (Seth Rogen) and Ethan (Joseph Gordon-Levitt, above, from left) have made Christmas Eve a guys' night for the past 12 years. But now that Chris is famous and Isaac is a dad-to-be, the trio sets out to have one last wild holiday in NYC — complete with a cornucopia of drugs and a Miley Cyrus cameo. "It was likely the easiest job I've ever done," Gordon-Levitt tells Us of the R-rated comedy (November 20). "It was just friends getting together every day, making each other laugh."

KELLY THE JUDGE

Osbourne dishes on her Project Runway gig

"The kids have to make outfits using stuff from a car wash!" Osbourne tells Us.

Kelly Osbourne finds inspiration in the most unusual places. "I was cleaning my toilet and the water turned a cool lime green," says the designer of Stories . . . by Kelly Osbourne for HSN. "I ended up using the color scheme for a collection!" Now the 31-year-old former Fashion Police panelist — who describes her style as "eclectic" — is judging Lifetime's spinoff Project Runway Junior. The competition (premieres November 12 at 9 P.M.) features designer hopefuls between the ages of 13 and 17, but, says Osbourne, "the challenges are just like the adult version!" The single Brit bedazzles Us.

Q: What blew your mind about the show?
These kids are loners [at school] who go home to their sewing machines. But when we put them all in a room, they come alive.

Q: Ever argue with the other judges?
Christian [Siriano, winner of Project Runway season 4] is good at technical stuff, but can be a d--k! I found myself slapping him with my scorecards, like, "Can you shut up, please?"

Q: Did the kids teach you anything?
I'm going to do a line for juniors because they inspired me so much. And I never thought I could pull off the boho look, but one contestant convinced me.

Q: One junior designer also has lavender hair. Do you feel like a trendsetter?
People have tweeted that I should kill myself because of my hair. It lit a fire up my ass to say, "I'm never changing it!"

Osbourne judges with (from left) Aya Kanai, Siriano and cohost Hannah Davis.

BROOKLYN'S BIG BREAKOUT

On the verge: Irish actress Saoirse Ronan tells Us about the role propelling her to stardom

"There's such an element of glamour," Ronan says of the retro costumes.

For the record, it rhymes with inertia. "I've heard so many pronunciations. . . . I even got 'Shelly' at the airport," actress Saoirse Ronan, 21, says, laughing, of her first name. "It's constant entertainment." But thanks to her acclaimed turn as a scrappy Irish immigrant in the 1950s-set drama Brooklyn (out now), she's primed to be a household name come awards season. Says Ronan, "I've never related to a film so deeply. My mom and dad made a similar journey from Ireland in the 1980s."

BON VOYAGE Just like her onscreen character, Ronan will move to New York this winter (she'll star in The Crucible on Broadway). "I've always wanted to live there," she raves. "I like how artsy it is. And I love the hipsters and their topknots!"

Ronan romances Emory Cohen on screen.

Bella Thorne's Must-Read Books

The actress and young-adult author, who overcame a learning disability, shares the stories that influenced her life

In the second book in her YA trilogy ($15, amazon.com), Autumn "has to find her middle ground," Thorne says.

AUTUMN'S KISS
Bella Thorne

Thorne, 18, spent a year writing her second novel, in which Autumn juggles friends, boys and high school. "I still think I could put finishing touches on it."

THE GIVING TREE
Shel Silverstein

Growing up with dyslexia, the actress "was ashamed and a bad reader." But the children's story about selflessness "was the one book I could get through."

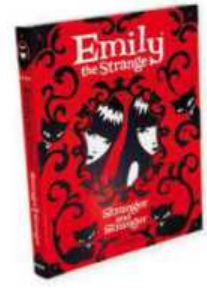

ANTHEM
Ayn Rand

The Disney alum says she "really liked" the dystopian tale, part of her required school reading. "It gave me a new perspective on individuality."

GHOSTGIRL
Tonya Hurley

At 13, she devoured the first book in a series about a phantom teen: "I was happy because it's, like, 420 pages and I read it in two days. It was an accomplishment."

EMILY THE STRANGE
Rob Reger

"She's the strangest girl," the Florida native says of the cat-obsessed lead. "It made me feel like anyone can be a little bit strange and it's not frowned upon."

Her top Delirium track is "Codes," she says: "It's the most uplifting. You'd dance to it with your friends."

FUN FACTS ABOUT GOULDING

She's a founding member of Taylor Swift's squad. She recorded the Fifty Shades of Grey anthem. And she's from Hereford, England. Now, 28-year-old Ellie Goulding — who releases her third album, Delirium, November 6 — submits to a lightning round of requests for lesser-known trivia.

Dream duet "Drake! I'd also love to do something crazy with Björk [right]. And I love MIA!"

Worst job "Cleaning toilets in a pub."

Recent meal "A bit of salad and a flapjack, randomly."

Number of times she's seen Fifty Shades "Zero! But I've watched the scene where they play my song 'Love Me Like You Do.' It's epic."

Surprising trait "I'm shy. When I start singing, my music kind of takes over — I kind of get possessed! So fans think I'm going to be this big, loud, vivacious character."

Best part of being in Swift's girl squad "I got to fire a bazooka in the 'Bad Blood' music video! You feel powerful."

Favorite Ellie Goulding single "'Anything Could Happen,' because it's really fun to perform."

Go-to nighttime activity "Everyman Cinemas in London has sofas, and you can drink a glass of wine."

Last purchase "A pair of pants — which you Americans call underwear!"

Fred's Wonder Years

Long before Fred Savage played a small-town attorney on Fox's comedy The Grinder (Tuesdays, 8:30 P.M.), he reached a verdict on a real-life law career. "I interned at my cousin's firm after high school," the Chicago-born actor, 39 (below), tells Us. "You think you'll make the 'You can't handle the truth' speech . . . but no one is playing music, no one's hair is being windblown. I realized I'd much rather pretend to be a lawyer than actually do it."

NO OBJECTIONS Another draw to playing an attorney on TV: working with onscreen brother Rob Lowe, 51. "The show is an excuse to hang out with him," adds the dad of three (with wife Jennifer, 42). "I see a future of us just being best friends forever, and that's all I really want."

NICK JONAS My Diabetes Story

The singer shares his 10-year journey with Us

It's tough for Nick Jonas to stay sweet when he sees stereotypes about diabetes. In June, after exercise company CrossFit tweeted a fake Coke ad with the line "open diabetes," the singer, diagnosed with type 1 diabetes at age 13, slammed its "ignorant" remark on social media. Though poor diet can up your risk for type 2 diabetes, "there is nothing you can do to prevent type 1," he explains of the disease, which occurs when the body doesn't produce insulin. Such misconceptions "can be frustrating," admits the Scream Queens star. But the falsehoods inspire him to speak out: "There's an education that needs to happen." In honor of National Diabetes Month, the 23-year-old schools Us.

How did you feel when you got your diagnosis?
It was scary. The initial step was to learn as much as possible . . . about carbohydrates and sugar intake, and how that would affect my levels.

Are you able to eat things like pancakes and candy?
I live a pretty low-carb life. I wish I was eating pancakes all the time. That would be so much fun! When I do, it's whole wheat or buckwheat.

What happens if your blood sugar gets too high or low?
I've had a couple of diabetic episodes. Most recently, I was walking home and out of nowhere I felt my sugar drop. I was in an elevator, luckily with a friend, when I started to pass out. I got to my room and got some juice and snacks to get my sugar up. It could have been very scary.

You work out a lot. Do you have to be careful not to go too hard?
I might have to take extra precautions, like checking my blood sugar, but I don't let diabetes hold me back.

OPENS FRIDAY 11/6

Spectre

Double 0-no! This James Bond film won't leave you shaken or stirred

★★☆☆

James Bond isn't just a name — it's a brand that signifies world-class glamour, cheeky humor and dazzling thrills. You won't find much of the above in this disappointingly perfunctory installment. After an exhilarating opener in which Agent 007 (Daniel Craig) maneuvers a crashing helicopter during the Day of the Dead in Mexico, the convoluted narrative lands with a thud. Bond, now on the outs with his soon-to-be-dismantled organization, sneaks off to Rome to track down a dead villain's origins. He soon infiltrates a shady syndicate called Spectre, run by a familiar foe played by Christoph Waltz. (His true identity will be a treat for fans of the Bond and Austin Powers movies.) If this sounds dry, wait until you get to the stolen surveillance services and drone warfare lectures. The dull plots might pass muster if the franchise's hallmarks went down as smooth as a martini. Yet the action sequences, which include car chases and endless shootouts, are uninspired. And the chilly Bond Girl (Léa Seydoux) shares scant chemistry with the hero. Maybe she can sense the weariness behind those blue eyes: In Craig's fourth outing, his restlessness is evident. If he wants out, now is the time. Blah. Very blah.

Brooklyn

What does it really mean to follow your heart? That's the theme of a gorgeous coming-of-age tale sure to stand the test of time. In the 1950s, shy Irish immigrant Eilis (a wonderful Saoirse Ronan) emerges from a cocoon of loneliness after she falls for a nice Italian boy (Emory Cohen) in Brooklyn. But during an extended trip to Ireland to see her family, she starts spending time with Jim (Domhnall Gleeson). Torn between two lives, Eilis shows gumption rarely seen in a female-centered film. (She may be a polite lass with impeccable table manners, but she can tell off a nosy local.) Indeed, don't think of this as a maudlin weeper about picking a man: It's a witty, dreamy love letter to independence and self-discovery — no matter where you call home.

Cohen courts Ronan in Coney Island in the film, which is based on Colm Tóibín's novel.

Lucy still loves tormenting her friend Charlie.

OPENS FRIDAY 11/6

The Peanuts Movie

It's not that good, Charlie Brown. Based on Charles Schulz's beloved comic strip, this 3-D film features the same cast of characters but lacks its heartwarming magic. The wisp of a plot revolves around lovable loser Charlie's attempts to impress a new girl. Only young kids will get a kick out of these silly shenanigans.

The journalists, played by Keaton (left) and Ruffalo, won a Pulitzer for the story.

OPENS FRIDAY 11/6

Spotlight

★★★★

Don't miss a crackling — and deeply important — thriller about the power of the press. Featuring an all-aces cast that includes Michael Keaton, Rachel McAdams and Mark Ruffalo, the true story deftly chronicles how Boston Globe reporters uncovered sex abuse within the Catholic Church in 2002. Their tenacity in piecing together the exposé spellbinds, while the results of their labor hit you like a punch in the gut.

SUNDAY 11/8

The Real Housewives of Atlanta

★★★☆

Raise (or toss!) a drink to season 8! Even with NeNe Leakes out of the fray, Georgia's Housewives remain the most vibrant — and provocatively unfiltered — in the franchise. Pregnant for the first time in 13 years, Kandi Burruss laughs over her expanding boobs in moments that feel genuinely intimate. As for juicy, neighbors Kenya Moore and returnee Sheree Whitfield hate on each other's unfinished McMansions. Viewers will echo amused bystander Phaedra Parks: "Lord have mercy." The only thing missing is hyped newbie Kim Fields. Tootie time starts in episode 2! (Bravo, 8 P.M.)

SUNDAY 11/8

Getting On

★★★½

The diagnosis for this biting hospital comedy's third and final season: side-splittingly funny. A story line involving some unclaimed vomit goes from gross to sublime. And when medical director Jenna (Laurie Metcalf) discovers she's being replaced by a swaggering newbie (Grant Bowler), her freak-out couldn't be more rich. Nurses Niecy Nash and Alex Borstein, meanwhile, strike as comically bittersweet. Finally, all the women band together — a nice change-up and fitting end. (HBO, 10 P.M.)

One Direction

Made in the A.M.

★★★☆

Nobody will notice he is missing. On 1D's first album without Zayn Malik, who quit the group in March, the remaining quartet's familiar arm-waving stadium sweepers and air-tight harmonies — exemplified by the likable singles "Drag Me Down" and "Perfect" — remain unaltered to keep tweens screaming for more. "We always find a way to make it out alive," the guys intone on the jaunty "History." Can't argue with that one.

MY TOP SOUL TUNES!

CeeLo Green, 40, whose fifth album, Heart Blanche, is out November 6, picks classics

DOGGIN' AROUND / JACKIE WILSON

"This is the first soul song I'd ever heard, so Jackie is my godfather."

RAINBOW / GENE CHANDLER

"I sang this as a kid in little talent shows I'd put on for Mom and Dad."

GRANDMA'S HANDS / BILL WITHERS

"It represents only an inkling of my strong grandmother's wisdom."

TROUBLE MAN / MARVIN GAYE

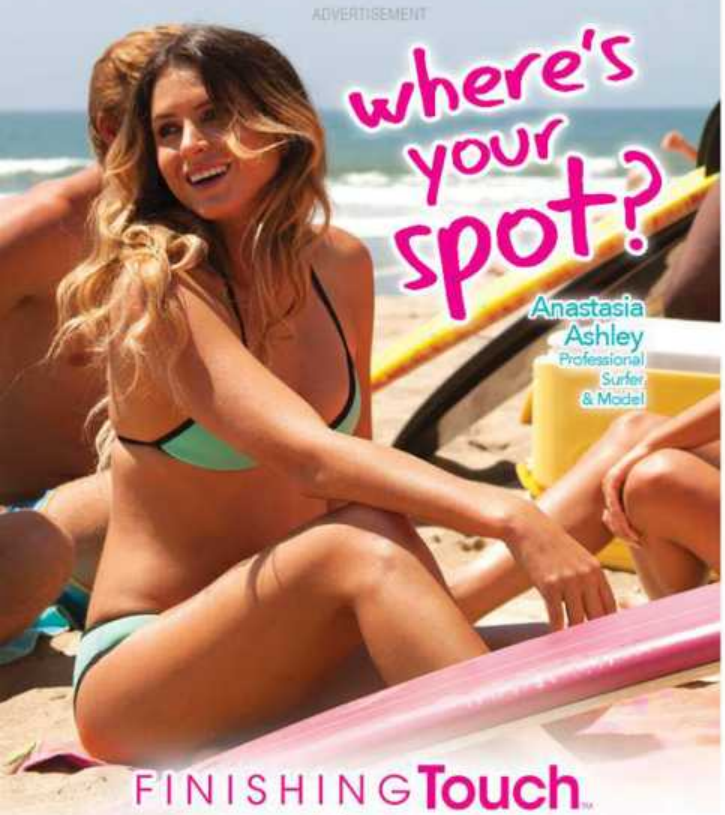

"The big band with his tortured vocal is the sound of the black experience."

DOING THE BEST I CAN / JAMES BROWN

"That line, 'I'm only a man, doing the best I can,' says it all about me."
